

SO SINGLE IT HURTS.

PREMIERE TUESDAY MARCH 17 • 9/8c 18 NBC

UTSIDE of the brutal killing of O.J. Simpson's ex-wife, Nicole Brown Simpson, few murder cases in recent memory have resonated as deeply with the public as that of JonBenet Ramsey, the 6-year-old child beauty queen who was found tied up, bludgeoned and strangled in the basement of her family's Boulder, Colo., home on Dec. 26, 1996.

Her parents, Patsy Ramsey (who died of cancer in 2006) and John Ramsey, as well as her brother, Burke, then 9, all claimed to be asleep in the house at the time JonBenet's death occurred. Patsy had called 911 hours after her daughter's murder to report she had found a ransom note for her missing child — and John found her body later that day when the police allowed him and two friends to search the house.

No one has ever been prosecuted in the case. The Ramseys always maintained their innocence, and supporters claimed an intruder had broken into their home through a basement window and killed JonBenet after a minute amount of unidentified DNA was found on her clothing.

But in a stunning Feb. 21 Q&A session on the news website Reddit, retired Boulder police chief Mark Beckner, a former lead investigator on the case, offered his opinions — and regrets — over how it was handled.

- On not immediately locking down the Ramsey home: "I wish we would have done a much better job of securing and controlling the crime scene from day one."
- On the cooperation from JonBenet's parents: "We also should have separated John and Patsy and gotten full statements from them that day...we did not get to formally interview them again until May of 1997, five months after their daughter was murdered."

On possible sources of the mystery

DNA: "Manufacturing process is one. Interactions with other people is another. Intentional placement is another. Belongs to an intruder is another."

On the probability of an intruder:

"Most investigators do not believe there was a legitimate point of entry." As for the broken basement window, "the dust and spider web were undisturbed."

Three days after the Q&A, Beckner added, "I tried to be honest and fair...I would emphasize [that] the unknown DNA [from JonBenet's clothing] is very important. And I'm not involved anymore, but that has got to be the focus of the investigation. In my opinion, at this point, that's your suspect." *

FASHION POLICE FIASCO

IN THE WAKE OF GIULIANA'S BAD HAIR JOKE, KELLY FINDS HERSELF OUT OF A JOB.

KELLY FIRED.

IULIANA RANCIC has poked fun at nearly every A-list outfit on El's Fashion Police, but it was her joke about Disney star Zendaya Coleman at the Oscars that has rocked the snarky series to its core. Giuliana's barb that the dreadlocked actress/singer looked like she would smell "of patchouli oil or weed," sparked outrage from Zendaya's fans, who called the jab racist. And while Zendaya herself, who had been an FP guest host, was also angered by the comment, it was Giuliana's own cohost Kelly Osbourne who went ballistic. "I'm seriously questioning staying on the show," tweeted an incensed Kelly during a weeklong rant about the scandal. Even after Giuliana apologized — twice — and Zendaya herself said she was ready to move on, Kelly wasn't. Sources say she was still "stirring up drama" behind the scenes until E! announced that Kelly was leaving the series.

But Star can reveal that Kelly's exit wasn't by choice. An E! insider claims she was given the option to quit or be fired, while another source says the network was over her never-ending issues: "The producers had had enough."

And so, it seems, have viewers. The once hot series has seen a serious slide in popularity since the death of host Joan Rivers. "Joan could pull off remarks like that; Giuliana can't. She's not funny," explains an insider. "No one can really fill Joan's shoes. The show is in serious trouble."

Indeed, fans haven't warmed to Joan's replacement, Kathy Griffin. "Kathy is boring, and her jokes are off — and honestly, she doesn't have a lick of fashion sense," says the insider, adding that Kathy apparently encouraged the Zendaya joke, which only further divided Kelly from the rest of the cast. But sources tell Star that producers may have been keen on getting Kelly out long before "Dreadgate." Rumors have swirled that Kelly has been a nightmare to work with since Joan's passing and execs are considering replacing her with Khloé Kardashian.

"Khloé is definitely interested, and producers believe she has the sass and the fan base to bring new viewers to the show," shares the tipster. "Kelly is fuming over this. She'd never admit it if she were forced to quit, but the buzz surrounding Khloé coming on board makes her wonder if E! was just waiting for a reason to push her out." JASON BIGGS BOOTED FROM BLACK

Orange Is the New Black has put Jason Biggs' career back on the map, but the actor's greed has left him out of season three! According to a show insider, despite being one of the show's highest earners, money was the main reason for his departure. "He wanted to double up by working on the show and also auditioning for network pilots at the same time," says the source. "He wasn't prepared to dedicate himself solely to the project, as promised." Bosses found Jason's stance "ungrateful and unreasonable," so he was written out completely. Says the insider: "He burned some serious bridges. It's feasible that he could still return, because he has a close friendship with the creator, Jenji Kohan. But he would have to do some major groveling." *

JULIANNE'S NASTY DIVORCE

When Julianne Moore won the Best Actress Oscar on Feb. 22 for Still Alice, she dedicated the award to her husband of 11 years, writer/director Bart Freundlich. But the ageless actress wasn't always so lucky in love. Star has learned that her first marriage, to aspiring actor John Gould Rubin, turned sour, leading to a bitter divorce. John reportedly admitted during the divorce that "my career as an actor has not gone well" and said he had earned only $2,600 that year — but he also claimed that Julianne's growing career was "marital property." Julianne, in turn, reportedly called John "lazy" and claimed he had "made a conscious decision not to go out and work." At one point, the judge ordered Julianne to pay John $650 in temporary weekly alimony — plus $17,500 for his legal fees!

BEYONCÉ BREAKS OUT!

She rarely looks anything but Bey-utiful, but recently leaked unretouched pics of Beyoncé reveal she's got a serious breakout going on, and an insider claims to know why: fertility drugs. "She assumed it would be easy to get pregnant a second time, but that hasn't been the case," the source dishes. "She heard horror stories about fertility drugs, and it's been as awful as she imagined. When she isn't on them, she has amazing skin, so it's been a huge shock to suddenly be dealing with breakouts." *

practice when it comes to telling little white lies. The country singer infuriated fans recently when she canceled a number of her concerts, claiming she was too sick to perform. But after social media slipups revealed that LeAnn was actually partying, Star has learned the real reason she's jeopardizing her career: She fears that husband Eddie Cibrian will cheat on her.

LeAnn, 32, first sparked outrage when she backed out of her Feb. 20 show at the Gold Country Casino and Hotel in Oroville, Calif., at the last minute. She then went on to cancel the following night's show at the Primm Valley Resort in Las Vegas. "I am so sorry to my fans that were planning on spending the evening with me," she said in a statement. "I would think living in California would help deter those pesky winter illnesses but boy was I wrong! As I lay here coughing and hacking away, I promise the wait will be worth it."

But her dedicated followers didn't buy her excuse. On Feb. 21, the day of her canceled show, LeAnn tweeted about Mexican food and margaritas. "In honor of #NationalMargaritaDay we'll do Mexican food 2x. Cooked turkey tacos & later dinner w/the fam,"

Insiders close to LeAnn claim that her serious trust issues are overtaking her dwindling career. As Star previously reported, she's terrified that Eddie, 41, will cheat on her with his Baby Daddy costar, 26-year-old Chelsea Kane. "She figures that if she watches over his every move and spends every waking moment with him, there'll be no way for him to have an affair," says the source. "Her fans may hate her for it, but she couldn't care less." *

Call it a preventive measure. Just two months after tying the knot in an intimate ceremony at her Beverly Hills home, Cameron Diaz, 42, and Benji Madden, 35, are in marriage counseling. Sources say the couple, who had a short seven-month romance before saying "I do," attend therapy once a month in order to stay happy. "They didn't know each other very long before getting married, and they want to avoid any potential stumbling blocks that may pop up," explains an insider. And the pair's biggest supporter is Benji's sister-in-law Nicole Richie, who wed his twin brother, Joel, in 2010 and who set the couple up on their first date. "She told Cameron that this is how you make a marriage last," says the pal. The Annie actress has also spoken about her love of talking things out. "My life would not be half as fulfilled as it is without therapy," she has said. "I take care of myself. I enjoy taking care of myself. It also helps keep my head clear and it helps me stay focused on my work and my life, and I just use it as a way of maintaining a certain standard of life." *

VEN after eight years and three children with Kourtney Kardashian, marriage has always been the last thing on Scott Disick's mind. He reiterated as much in January, shortly after the birth of their third child, Reign, when he said, "If it's not broke, don't fix it — we're happy the way it is." But just weeks after he uttered those words, sources say Scott did, in fact, pop the question just not to Kourtney. It was her teenage half sister Kendall Jenner he asked to marry him!

be having an affair, a friend tells Star that Lord Disick took their scandalous relationship to the next level during a recent night of drinking with the 19-year-old supermodel. "He got tipsy and proposed to Kendall," the source reveals. "He didn't get down on one knee or produce a ring, but he said, 'We should get married."" What Kendall told Scott after that seems to have dramatically altered the pair's future together - as well as Scott's relationship with Kourtney. Star has the inside scoop on the shocking proposal, and its aftermath.

KENDALL'S RESPONSE

During the wildly inappropriate — yet oddly romantic moment, Scott, 31, poured his heart out to Kendall. "He told her how unhappy he is with Kourtney, how the passion is gone in their relationship," the insider reports. "And in the same breath he talked about running away with Kendall. He said he's desperate to start fresh."

But the model shut down his soul-baring confession. "She actually told him to stop and said they had to end 'whatever this is,'" the source reveals. "She begged him to go home to Kourtney and make things work, because she didn't know how they could carry on without destroying the family."

Clearly embarrassed, Scott tried to backpedal. "He obviously hadn't planned to blurt out that they should get married. But once he'd said it, there was no taking it back," the source explains. "Kendall's reaction apparently shocked him, though, because he started making more of an effort with Kourtney after that."

Kendall must have been shaken by Scott's proposal too, because she discussed it with her sister Khloé soon after. "Khloé was horrifiedshe hadn't realized things had gotten so out of hand between them," the source says, noting that Khloé had believed the pair's flirtation to be nothing more than a joke. "She told Kendall she needed to back off and distance herself from Scott, for everybody's sake."

VEGAS BLOWOUT

Kourtney, meanwhile, has been keeping a close eye on Scott since January, when he made headlines for trashing an Aspen hotel room with friends after a wild night of partying. Concerned about his problem drinking — and about the Kendall rumors - she made an impromptu decision to go to Las Vegas with him for a nightclub appearance on Feb. 21. But their rare night out together at 10ak nightclub quickly turned vicious. "They got into a heated argument at the club, after Kourtney caught Scott checking out a couple of girls," the source reveals. "He told her she was acting uptight, which made her even more enraged. That's when she brought up Kendall. Kourtney made it clear that if she finds out he's messing around with her little sister — or anyone, really — he'll never see his kids again!"

After their blowout fight, Scott backed down and went into suck-up mode. He and Kourtney, 35, shared a dinner date in Calabasas, Calif., on Feb. 23, and headed to Montana with their kids — Mason, 5, Penelope, 2, and Reign, 3 months—the next day for a Kardashian family ski trip. And the extra attention Scott has been showing his baby mama seems to have smoothed things over between them, for now. "Kourtney has no idea what's behind this 'new Scott.' She just thinks he's finally waking up to his responsibilities," says the spy. "She doesn't want to spoil it by asking too many questions."

EURO TRIP

The rekindled spark between the longtime couple was quickly extinguished, however, when Scott hopped on a plane on Feb. 26 to begin his nine-day nightclub tour of Great Britain. Kendall had been in London that week too, but she left for Milan shortly before Scott arrived. With both of them in Europe at the same time, the Kardashians are on edge, fearful that the pair might meet up for a romantic rendezvous. "The family have all agreed to cut off both Scott and Kendall for good if they hook up in Europe," the insider says. And, given the family's new $100 million deal for four more seasons of Keeping Up with the Kardashians, cutting off the pair is a significant financial threat!

Still, mom Kris Jenner is doing everything she can to protect Kourtney, even enlisting daughter Kim — who was also in England, with husband Kanye West for the Brit Awards, when Scott got there — to try and keep Scott and Kendall apart. "But Kim told Kris she wasn't going to waste her trip keeping tabs on her 'brother-in-law' and half sister," the source says. "She's already warned Kendall to stay away from Scott,

WILL THEY MEET IN PARIS?

While Kendall has strutted her stuff on designer runways in New York and London over the past few weeks, she only walked in two shows in Milan this fashion season: No. 21 on Feb. 25 and Fendi on Feb. 26. After that, Kendall fell ill with the flu — right as Scott was ramping up his U.K. nightclub tour. But sources close to the Kardashian/Jenner clan fear that the real reason the in-demand model missed most of the Milan shows is that she secretly snuck off to see Scott. "They were just a couple of hours' flight away from each other," says a family insider. "And even though Kendall and Scott have told Kourtney, Kris and the rest of the family that they've never hooked up, Kris is second-guessing them."

Even if Kendall did stay in Milan, convalescing, over the past few days, the now-healthy supermodel will have more opportunities to meet up with Scott during Paris Fashion Week, which begins March 4. By then, Scott will be in London, which is just 75 minutes away by plane from the City of Light.

even if they aren't having an affair—but her words fall on deaf ears."

Despite leaving her own relationship with Scott on good terms before his departure, Kourtney is obviously the most nervous about him being in Europe at the same time as Kendall. "For years she's put up with the cheating scandals surrounding Scott. She's stood by him throughout his drinking problems and wild partying, all the while raising their children," the source says. "But there's only so much she can take. Not once in their eight years together has he proposed to her."

And while Kourtney has insisted that she's not interested in getting married either, her friends say that's just the eldest Kardashian trying to act stoic. "Of course she wants to marry him. She has three children with him; they should already be committed," the insider says. "That's why Kourtney can never know that he asked her own sister to marry him. It would absolutely destroy her." *

- 2008: He made his Broadway debut in Cat on a Hot Tin Roof, with James Earl Jones — and was accused of attacking and punching composer Tex Allen in the head and face.
- 2011: Terrence's second wife, had caused her physical injuries,

 threatened her with a butcher knife, broken her computer and nearly thrown her from a balcony during a trip to South Africa.
- 2012: An ex-girlfriend said he punched and kicked her at his home. No charges were filed, but Terrence later paid the woman $75,000 to sign a nondisclosure agreement about the episode. That year, an audio sex tape was also leaked, reportedly of Terrence making vulgar and sexist comments to girlfriend May Seng Yang.
- 2013: Terrence and Michelle reconciled and took a trip to Costa Rica, but it ended with Michelle filing for another restraining order against him, including allegations that he punched and choked her, leaving bruises on her face.

MURDER!

But she eventually had a change of heart, recalling, "I was like, 'I don't really want to go down this road." She began modeling locally and went back to school to earn a GED. On the day she turned 18, she applied to ANTM, and her striking look and aggressive personality made her a shoo-in for the popular reality competition.

Mirjana was the youngest contestant on the latest incarnation of the show which saw men and women vying for the title for the first time. She was the focus of some controversy when she began hooking up with male contestant Denzel Wells despite admitting she had a boyfriend back home. It's not clear if she was referring to Jonathan Alvarado, but her relationship with Wells was at times hostile, with the couple often having loud and intense arguments. Although Mirjana was eliminated on the 10th episode, her stunning photos made a big impact and garnered interest from several modeling agencies.

STRUGGLING WITH GRIEF

Mirjana's fellow contestants were shocked when the news of her death came out and expressed their grief on social media. Host and executive producer Tyra Banks tweeted, "The Top Model family is deeply saddened by the tragic news of Mirjana Puhar. We love you Mirjana. Forever." Last season's winner, Keith Carlos, posted, "I love you @mirjanapuhar #RIP," and runner-up Will Jardell wrote on Facebook: "@mirjanapuhar you are an amazing human being and you will be extremely missed."

Even though Mirjana didn't win the competition, the beauty was confident that her modeling career would soon take off, recently telling The Charlotte Observer, "Not to sound very cocky, but I feel like I'm a big fish in a small pond.... Everything happens for a reason."

BAD ROMANCE ALERT! GAGA HOOKED UP WITH HER FIANCÉ WHEN HE WAS DATING SOMEONE ELSE — AND IT WASN'T THE FIRST TIME.

ELTING out tunes from The Sound of Music at the Oscars this year, the newly engaged Lady Gaga looked and sounded just like an angel. But don't let appearances fool you. While Gaga, 28, works hard to sell her provocative image, Star has learned that it's no act—the "Born This Way" singer is a man-eater who stole her past four boyfriends from other women! "Most women declare a guy off-limits when he's got a wife or girlfriend. But not Gaga," says an insider. "For her, it's a challenge."

As Star previously reported, Gaga's fiancé, Taylor Kinney, 33, was seriously dating real estate agent Brittany Sackett when Gaga fell for him on the set of her "Yoü and I" music video — and eventually stole his heart. "I feel like she's a homewrecker," Brittany tells Star, adding that she found out about Taylor and Gaga's affair when he pocket-dialed her in the middle of a make-out session with the diva.

A FEELING OF POWER

But Gaga's man-stealing didn't begin with Taylor. Her intense 2009 affair with art director Matthew "Dada" Williams broke up his relationship with his live-in girlfriend, with whom he had a baby boy. And a year later she pursued her ex Lüc Carl, who eventually left his girlfriend for her. "She was relentless," the insider says. "She called and texted him like crazy and threw herself at him." Even her first high-profile romance, with producer Rob Fusari, began in 2006 when Rob was engaged. "She finds power in stealing men away from other women," says the insider. "It's really strange." *

BARELY INSURED, THE KARDASHIAN CLAN PATRIARCH COULD LOSE A FORTUNE IN CIVIL LAWSUITS RESULTING FROM HIS DEADLY CAR CRASH.

E'S BEEN FORCED to put his sex-change plans on hold. But that's the least of Bruce Jenner's troubles, in the wake of the devastating dominoeffect car crash that changed his life forever — and is now threatening to cost him millions.

Star has learned that Bruce's insurance policy caps out at only $250,000 — a mere fraction of the damage resulting from the horrifying accident on Pacific Coast Highway in Malibu on Feb. 7 that wrecked four cars, injured seven people and killed one woman — Kardashian neighbor Kim Howe.

And while Bruce is unlikely to face criminal charges, the Los Angeles Police Department is now in posession of video that reportedly shows Bruce starting the chain reaction by slamming into the slow-moving Lexus, propelling it into oncoming traffic and killing the 69-year-old widow. That means at the very least, Bruce — a rich man worth $100 million — is bound to be slapped with hefty civil suits, quite possibly from parties in all three other cars.

"He is definitely what we call a 'target defendant' — not quite as big as Coca-Cola but close enough," says William C. Gordon, a California-based personal injury lawyer who estimates that Bruce could be looking at up to $6 million in damages, depending on the severity of injuries among the survivors. Much of it could go to 73-year-old Elga Maurer, a passenger in the Hummer who suffered spinal injuries. (In terms of how the law calculates value, damages for survivors would typically far outweigh the deprivations of a family who lost someone outright). Gordon also notes that, barring a settlement,

Bruce's lawyers would probably ask to be tried by a judge instead of a jury, because, "Who the hell is going to feel sorry for a guy driving a Cadillac hauling a dune buggy?"

Such a huge potential loss could have been avoided if Bruce had taken out a policy more in line with his wealth. "It's hard to believe he was that foolish about his insurance," says an insider.

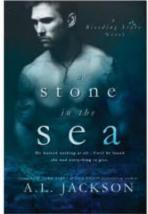

HIS DREAM POSTPONED

According to sources close to the Olympic hero, Bruce is still "an emotional wreck" and struggling to sleep. Bruce was moving full steam ahead on his gender reassignment plans before the crash took place, and loss of money and time from civil suits could forestall his dream indefinitely. Says the insider, "It's sad. A few seconds of distracted driving might have ruined his life."

Premieres Thursday, March 5, at 10PM on USA

On this ambitious new series, Jason Isaacs stars as Peter Connelly, an FBI agent stationed in Jerusalem who's struggling with the recent death of his teenage daughter when he stumbles onto a conspiracy that could bring on the end times. So there's plenty of Biblical prophesies, Hasidic Jews tending rare cattle in Norway and clones of someone who may or may not be the Messiah. Part Raiders of the Lost Ark, part Da Vinci Code, the show layers the mythology of the main story with squabbles between the FBI and the Jerusalem police and a dalliance between Peter and his boss (Anne Heche). Isaacs is always solid, while Heche mostly seems tense and brittle. There are many, many moving parts to this series — and while it feels at times like a lot of wasted motion, it's intriguing enough to check out.

→ NEWLYWEDS: THE FIRST YEAR

Premieres Tuesday, March 10, 10PM, Bravo

The reality show's second season again shadows a set of couples, including a same-sex pair, from just a few days before the wedding through their first year. To its credit, this series understands where the pressure points are in a new marriage: bad communication, unspoken hurt feelings, control issues. And we see each of those things played out. Indeed, by the end of the first episode, you can tell which couples won't make it to that one-year mark. But like so many reality series, the drama here seems forced; you can always feel the presence of a producer behind the camera, trolling the subjects for the worst possible behavior on camera. Still, with 40 to 50 percent of marriages ending in divorce, a show like this at least portrays how difficult it is to really share your life with another person.

In the last couple years, millions of people across the country have experienced, for the first time, the amazing, soothing and cleansing overnight effect of Detox Foot Pads.

Detox foot pads are a true healing wonder that go far beyond removing toxins. In fact, they work so fast, throughout the whole body, and so effectively, that most people are shocked when they first use them.

Harmful "Gunk" and Toxins Out, Health, Healing and Energy In

Many people are surprised to learn that feet are a key gateway to better health.

The Japanese, who enjoy FAR better health than we do as Americans, have known this secret for thousands of years.

In fact, the ancient art of foot reflexology is based on Japanese healing methods that date back six thousand years. Acupuncturists know this as well and treat patients for most of their health problems by starting with the feet.

Yuck! After just one night of use, this is what a Detox Foot Pad looks like. It has collected built-up toxic "gunk" that has accumulated in and near the lower legs and feet, exiting right through the pores of the feet into the pad. Different parts of the soles of our feet significantly affect the health of other areas of the body. This has been proven again and again by numerous medical studies carried out by world-renowned hospitals and universities.

The soles of our feet also play an important role in our health by being at the lowest point in the body, where gravity collects harmful, health and energy-sapping toxins that have no way to come out. This toxic purging happens by gently stimulating the reflexology zones on the feet.

And there's no better health "tool" on earth to help your body remove harmful, built-up chemicals, toxic metals, excess lymph fluid and "gunk" than a Detox Foot Pad.

Plus, they are far easier to use than other popular cleansing methods that include fasting, and remedies that violently purge the digestive system.

They Work While You Sleep so... You'll be Amazed When You Wake!

After applying one to the bottom of each foot before bed, detox foot pads go to work as you sleep. Then, after a night of drawing out and trapping unhealthy toxins, what users see in the morning is shocking. The brown, gunk-filled pad is evidence of what's inside your body that needs to come out.
